MEDITERRANEAN TO BE MADE INTO HOT WAR SPOT, SAY NAZIS

Disclose Plans Following Their "First Move" Toward The Suez Canal

BLAZE AIR TRAIL

British Navy Will Bear Brunt of The German Drive on Alexandria, Tobruk

BERLIN, June 6—With Wednesday night's raid on Alexandria characterized as the "first move" toward Suez, the German high command today disclosed plans to transform the Eastern Mediterranean into the hottest "hell's corner" of the war.

The British Navy will bear the brunt of the Nazi drive on Alexandria, Tobruk and Cyprus as part of a co-ordinated program to smash all resistance in the Mediterranean.

The attack launched by the Luftwaffe on Wednesday night was undertaken to "blaze an air trail which will progressively expand," it was said. Inevitably, a spokesman added, the British Fleet will find itself trapped at the end of the Suez Canal.

ADDRESSES ROTARIANS

ROBERT C. MCKINLEY
Of the Philadelphia Dairy Council, who was guest speaker at meeting of Bristol Rotary Club yesterday.

Stresses Necessity Of Health For Any Success

Stressing the necessity of health for any kind of success, Robert C. McKinley of the Philadelphia Interstate Dairy Council, was guest speaker at the Bristol Rotary Club luncheon meeting in the Elks' Home at 12:15 yesterday.

Mr. McKinley presented "Health Notes," a musical talk with a health theme which told the humorous story of one Oswald Blipp and his struggles with musical training.

As speaker for the Dairy Council, an educational organization supported by milk producers and dealers, Mr. McKinley has appeared before thousands of junior and senior high schools, college, church, and professional groups, business and social clubs in this area and is well known as a humorous lecturer.

Ernest Gamble led group singing at the meeting yesterday. Announcement was made that the speaker next week will be the famous Indian athlete, "Jim" Thorpe.

Defense Council Session Will Be Held This Evening

The Local Defense Council of Bucks County has called a meeting tonight, eight o'clock, d. s. t., at the headquarters of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Clinton and Ashland streets, Doylestown.

The Council feels that the meetings should be open to anyone who would care to attend, and states that the general public is welcome.

The chairmen of the various committees have been named and are now forming their committees. Some are already functioning.

The need of the Local Defense Council for Bucks County is becoming more apparent as time goes on, it is said, and it can function most effectively with the general support of the entire citizens of Bucks County.

DOYLESTOWN CLUB LISTS TWO OF ITS OBJECTIVES

Hospital Ward for Children, and Acquisition of Second Visiting Nurse

OFFICERS ARE NAMED

DOYLESTOWN, June 6—The Doylestown Village Improvement Association has announced two objectives for the near future: a children's ward to care for increased demands; and the acquisition of a second visiting nurse, due to demands for this service.

Another important feature of the annual meeting, held at the Doylestown Country Club, this week, was the election of Miss Helen L. Ryan as president, and the following other officers:

First vice-president, Mrs. Henry D. Paxson; second vice-president, Miss Mary I. Crosley; secretary, Mrs. John Ward; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Samuel B. Samuels; treasurer, Mrs. Gertrude H. Shearer; assistant treasurer, Mrs. C. A. Sienkiewicz.

CONSIDER DEFENSE COUNCIL

DOYLESTOWN, June 6—Three American Legionnaires, A. Russell Thomas, chairman; Burgess, Dr. John J. Sweeney, and G. Thawley Hayman, have been named a committee to confer with borough council and other officials in regards to formation of a Doylestown home defense council. The Legionnaires were appointed by Captain Daniel D. Atkinson, Jr., Post of the American Legion.

DEFENSE COUNCIL TO MEET

DOYLESTOWN, June 6—The Local Defense Council of Bucks County will meet tonight at the headquarters of the Doylestown Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars. The meeting is open to the public. A number of sub-committees of the Council are already functioning. The Council is headed by County Commissioner William O. Hunsicker.

RUINAGE SALE

St. James' Circle will conduct a rummage sale in the parish house tonight from 7 to 9, and also tomorrow starting at 9 a. m.

Mumps Leads All Other Diseases Here in May

Mumps led all of the other diseases in Bristol during May, according to the monthly report of Borough Health Officer, James H. Brooks. The report shows there were 59 cases of mumps reported by the various physicians during the past month. There are at present 25 cases of mumps under quarantine.

There were 15 cases of scarlet fever, fourteen of which are now under quarantine. The other diseases were measles, four; chicken-pox, five; and lobar pneumonia, two.

There are at present 43 cases of various diseases under quarantine in Bristol.

Complaints about the throwing of garbage into Adams Hollow Creek in the vicinity of Trenton avenue and Elm street has been investigated. The Board announced that if the persons guilty are caught that they will be prosecuted.

There was the regular monthly inspection of dairies and sedimentation tests of milk were taken.

The Board of Health met last night in the Municipal Building with Dr. H. Doyle Webb presiding.

ATHLETIC, SCHOLASTIC AWARDS ARE PRESENTED

When The 77 Seniors Are Graduated From Morrisville High School

PROGRAM OUT-DOORS

MORRISVILLE, June 6—When outdoor exercises marked the commencement program of Morrisville high school on Tuesday evening, a number of athletic and scholastic awards were made to the seniors. Exercises were held on the school lawn.

The awards included: Rotary Club award of $10, presented by president Neal Nolan to John Hoogstraete; the P. T. A. awards of $5 each, to Helen Boodley for home economics, and Charles Bleasdale for shop, presented by president Mrs. William Fielding; Fathers' Association awards of $5 each, presented by president William H. Howell, to William Annellini for science and Jean Schultz for shorthand; Student Council medals, presented by vice-president Donald McClanin, to Jean Reitzle, Bernice Ralder, Jane Simons, Robert Keyes, Robert Beadle, and David Seltzer.

Summer Program Outlined By The Exchange Club

Bristol Exchange Club met last evening in the Elks Home with 29 present. President Horace Schmidt presided. The program was devoted to business. Warren P. Snyder, chairman of the "glassess committee" for school children, reported that several cases had been taken care of, and several children are to be taken to the Wills Eye Hospital, Philadelphia, for examination.

Walter Pitzonka announced that the summer program has been completed. Weekly meetings are scheduled for the month of June, and bi-monthly meeting for July, August and September.

The program is as follows: July 10, lawn of Russell DeLong; July 24, at Bucks County Scout Camp Ockanickon, Point Pleasant; August 7, lawn of Clarence Moyer; August 21, lawn of Howard Leister; September 11, lawn of Dr. George T. Fox with women guests present; September 25th, lawn of Horace Schmidt.

DANCE FOR GRADUATES

The Mothers' Association of Bristol public schools gave a dance last evening to graduates of Bristol high school. The affair was held in the high school auditorium, and each member was entitled to invite a guest. The hall was decorated in the class colors, blue and white. Refreshments were served. Prizes were given for special dances. Those receiving them were: Miss Gloria Greco, Frank Belmonte, Miss Josephine Rossi, William Capella and Roy Houser.

DINNER GUESTS

Mrs. Edward Kupiec, Radcliffe street, and Miss Ruth Wagner, Pond street, entertained friends at dinner on Monday evening at Fischer's Tea Room. Scudders Falls N. J. Those present: the Misses Virginia Hamilton, Margaret Collier, Marion Harrison, Margaret Neill, Mildred Fabian, Gladys Hewitt, Mary Beale; Mrs. Horace Royer, Mrs. William Marray.

FAREWELL PARTY

Last evening a farewell party was tendered Samuel Ross, Wood street, by Clinton J. Lewis Lodge, No. 201, I. B. P. O. E. of W. at the lodge room on Lake street. Mr. Ross is leaving Bristol for a year of army training. During the evening a group of girls presented Mr. Ross with a travelling bag.

TO ELECT OFFICERS

There will be a meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary tonight at 8:15, in Bracken post home. Nomination and election of officers will take place.

Here and There in Bucks County Towns

Committee chairmen for the term of 1941-42 of the Dorothea Hughes Simmons Parent-Teacher Association at Prospectville have been named.

They include: Finance, Mrs. Carl Kohler; hospitality, Mrs. Charles Jago; luncheon, Mrs. James Crawford; magazines, Mrs. Raymond Hoffman; membership, Mrs. Jack Fisher; music, Mrs. Edward DeLong; program, Mrs. Richard Thurber; scrap book, Mrs. Walter Calvert; Summer round-up, Mrs. Albert Weisel; sunshine, Mrs. Paul Fruchs.

The next meeting will be held June 16th, when the annual picnic supper in honor of the graduating class will also take place.

Members of the Young Men's Bible Class, with the King's Daughter Class, and trustees of Mechanicsville Sunday School and friends met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Merton Rinkler, Mechanicsville, on Sunday, when they honored a draftee.

John Y. Slotter was the guest of honor, and is the first draftee from the Sunday school to leave for Army training. He will leave for Camp Lee, Va., on Thursday.

The Henry W. Gross prizes were awarded for outstanding scholastic activities when promotion exercises of eighth grade pupils, Doylestown Township schools, were held, Tuesday evening.

The exercises in the Doylestown high school auditorium were featured by addresses, one of which was given by Dr. H. B. Allen, president of National Farm School. The founder and a director of the Near East Foundation, Dr. Allen commented upon the democracy found in American education. This education, he said, is for service. Before the establishment of the Near East Foundation, said Dr. Allen, the Greeks considered education as a means of lifting the educated above the common drudgery of life and not for service. Graduates of colleges and secondary schools, he said, felt themselves lifted far above the less educated people. Dr. Allen read a letter from a Greek soldier who was under his direction at the time he founded the Near East Foundation.

Crosby Sedick, treasurer of the Doylestown Township School Board, who made the Gross awards, paid a high tribute to Mr. Gross, who for many years was a member of the board.

Presented by Robert K. Shafer, principal of the consolidated school, county superintendent Charles H. Boehm said millions of children in Europe and Asia would be glad to exchange places with the school children in this country.

Promotion certificates were presented to 28 boys and girls by assistant county superintendent Albert C. Rutter, Perkase.

FOUNDERS DAY PLANNED AT NAT'L FARM SCHOOL

Hon. Elmer H. Wene, of Vineland, N. J., Will Be Speaker at Doylestown, Sunday

TREE DEDICATION

DOYLESTOWN, June 6—Founders Day Exercises of the National Farm School are planned for Sunday next at the Farm School grounds, at 2:15 p. m., these making the 15th such program.

Edwin H. Silyerman, chairman of the committee on arrangements, and Louis Schlessinger, honorary chairman of the 1941 Founders' Day, announce the following program:

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT
(Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

The Next Chief Justice

Washington, June 5. SOME of the things that should be said concerning the retirement of Mr. Charles Evans Hughes as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court have already been said. One of these, of course, is that in the whole history of the United States there have not been more than one or two men who in every way so well measured up to this exalted position as he; none who has better done so.

ONE very obvious thing that has not been said, however, is that, if the President's purpose is accurately reflected by his intimates, his selection of a successor to Mr. Hughes will lower the present level of the court more than a little. And that is a rather serious thing, because hardly anyone outside of the so-called Administration "inner circle" will contend that the five appointments already made by Mr. Roosevelt, beginning with Mr. Black and ending with Mr. Murphy, have not diminished the distinction of the bench.

JURISTS and lawyers generally agree now that if the President, putting from his mind all thought of politics, prejudice and personalities, should desire to fill Mr. Hughes' place with the best-equipped man he would designate Justice Harlan Fiske Stone. But he is not expected to do that. While Justice Stone is a liberal of long standing, he is not a New Dealer, and Mr. Roosevelt has made basic New Dealism the primary qualification for the Supreme Bench. He has selected his justices not so much for their intellectual and legal attainments as for their complete acquiescence in his political philosophy. There is no reason to believe that he will change this policy in filling the existing vacancies.

Resident of Oceanville Dies in Hulmeville

HULMEVILLE, June 6—A resident of Oceanville, N. J., Mrs. Bessie Phillips, died at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Phillips, Beaver street, here, yesterday. The deceased is the wife of Harry Phillips.

She was a former resident of Holly avenue, South Langhorne. In addition to her husband, Mrs. Phillips is survived by two daughters. She was in her 61st year, and had been ill for some time.

The funeral service will be conducted by the Rev. Wilmer E. Harkness, pastor of Neshaminy Methodist Church, at the Phillips home, here, on Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. Burial will be made in Beechwood Cemetery. Friends may call Saturday evening.

Italians Bomb Gibraltar

Rome, June 6—In the second of a series of great Axis blows intended to break the British grip on both ends of the Mediterranean, Italian airplanes during the night bombed Gibraltar for the first time in months.

Other Axis air fleets blasted Malta again and started new attacks in Libya. Coming on the heels of a German attack on Alexandria, the bombing of Gibraltar was accepted in Rome today as the first result of plans worked out by Hitler and Mussolini in Brenner Pass Monday.

The attacks on Alexandria and Gibraltar were regarded as precursors of an intensive campaign on land and sea and in the air, with the Italians playing the major role in the west and the Germans in the east.

An Italian communique hinted that the attack on Gibraltar was one of the most severe since French planes bombed the fortress last year in reprisal for British attacks on Marseilles.

3495 Selectees Needed From Penna. in June

Harrisburg, June 6—Governor James said today that 3,495 selectees would be needed from the state for induction between June 11 and 20, rather than 5,349 previously requisitioned.

British Warships Watch For Suez Drive

London, June 6—British warships were reported maintaining a "hair-trigger watch" off the Syrian coast today as London military quarters expressed belief the long-threatened Nazi drive against Suez is under way.

Events in Syria, these quarters declared, are rapidly approaching a climax which may plunge the entire Near and Middle East into total warfare of the type and ferocity of the battle of Crete.

Military quarters termed the air raid on Alexandria, in which at least 150 persons were killed and more than 200 injured, the opening Axis blow in this newest stage of Europe's fast-spreading conflict.

Commission Announces Need For Experienced Help

Men with appropriate education or experience may file in the examination for operator's helper (male), the U. S. Civil Service Commission announced today. Vacancies in this position at piecework rates will be filled at the Philadelphia Quartermaster Depot as a result of this examination.

Applications must be on file before the close of business on June 12th, with the secretary, Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, Philadelphia Quartermaster Depot, Philadelphia. Copies of the announcement and application forms may be obtained from the secretary, Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, at the Philadelphia Quartermaster Depot; first and second-class post offices in the vicinity of Philadelphia; or the Manager, Third U. S. Civil Service District, Customhouse, Philadelphia.

New Editors Chosen For B. H. S. Rambler Staff

The Rambler Club of Bristol high school has named its new editors for the 1941-42 term.

Through the election a news and sports editor were chosen. Those given posts on the staff are: Editor-in-chief, Francis Della; literary editor, Mary Davis; sports editor, Philip Corn; news editor, George Molden.

BRISTOL TWP. BOARD HAS 2 MORE DIRECTORS

Additions Necessitated With Change of School District To Third Class

SELECT ONE TEACHER

With the change from a fourth to a third class school district being automatically made in Bristol Township, due to establishment of a junior high school for 1941-42, the two additional directors required on the board were named at the June meeting last evening.

Those selected, bringing the board membership up to seven, are E. Leslie Helwig, Bristol Pike; and Carl Vetter, Bath Addition.

The meeting was held in Maple Shade school, with James Robinson presiding. A special meeting is to be called in the near future to decide upon matters pertaining to erection of the new junior high structure on Rogers Road.

The board, last evening, elected Miss Eleanor Baxter, Philadelphia, as home economics teacher, at a salary of $1200.

Registration days for beginners in the township were set for August 25th and 26th, they to register at various school buildings in the township.

The number of pupils announced last evening for the junior high follows: Seventh grade, to be located in Edgely school, 124; eighth grade, 83; ninth grade, 102, making a total of 185 to be housed in the new building.

Dancers Are in Readiness For Granzow Revue Tonight

Dancers from the tiniest to the more advanced ones in the classes at Granzow Dancing Academy are keyed to the point today where it is difficult to keep their toes from constantly following rhythmic steps—so great has been their interest in preparations for the sixth annual recital of Miss Sara C. Granzow's pupils, tonight.

The program is scheduled to be held at the Grand Theatre; and everything is in readiness down to the minutest detail. "The Stars of Today and Tomorrow" are ready to "step out" on the stage at the first note signalling their particular number.

Such words as Tiny Tapper, So Sleepy and Sweet, Maytime, Gypsies Gay, Hi-Tappin', Yes! My Darling Daughter, The Wise Old Owl, Fencing Tap, Invitation to the Dance, Club Fiesta, Rollin' Pin Roll, Star Dust—all are descriptive of some of the dances in store for the hundreds expected to witness the recital this evening.

Acrobatics, high kicks, smooth waltzes, rhythmic taps, soft-shoe numbers, have been practiced for perfection, and those attending the program are promised a grand treat.

Gorgeous costumes each year seem to surpass those of the previous season in the Granzow Revue and tonight is no exception. Dressmakers have for weeks been dreaming of and working with all manner of patterns, materials, and scintillating trim.

BENEFICIARIES OF A LANGHORNE WOMAN'S WILL ARE NUMEROUS

Ella C. Watson Bequeaths Life Right in House To The Leedom Sisters

THE HALDEMAN ESTATE

Letters in J. T. Donahue Estate Are Granted To His Sister

DOYLESTOWN, June 6—Numerous individuals will share the $4600 personal and $4000 real estate of Ella C. Watson, Langhorne. Residue was bequeathed to Amy W. and Cynthia H. Leedom. Amy and Cynthia Leedom were given the right to reside at 150 Richardson avenue, Langhorne, so long as they wish to make that their home.

Other beneficiaries include Herbert Eastburn, grandfather's clock; Jane Zelly and Elizabeth L. Bacon, blue dinner set; Ella and Lillian Whittall, pearl tea set; Edith W. Ely, diamond pin; Katherine G. Wire, solid silverware and cameo pin; Marian P. Townsend, maple bureau; and Lettie Watson, garnet pin. A. Paul Townsend, Jr., was named the executor. A monetary beneficiary was Susan Hamilton, who received $100.

The $15,000 personal estate of Richard M. Haldean, Bensalem township, was placed in trust, with provisions for an income and other stipulations, for the children of a brother, Charles, who are Anna, May, Charles and William. The Second National Bank of Philadelphia was named the executor and the children shall receive an income until they are 25 years old before receiving the bulk of the estate.

Mrs. Theresa Rizzio, Nockamixon township, who left a personal estate of $10 and real estate valued at $2,000, bequeathed $1 to four children, Louis.

Miss Florence Parker Is Given Gifts of Linen

Friends of Miss Florence Parker, 1th avenue, tendered her a linen shower at her home, on Wednesday afternoon.

The rooms were decorated with bouquets of flowers, pink being the color plan. Cellophane streamers fell from a watering can onto a "book of memories," which told the guest of honor where she could find the gifts.

A buffet luncheon was partaken of by: Mrs. Howard McGoldrick, Jr., Hulmeville; Mrs. Howard McGoldrick, Sr., Mrs. Frank Spravel, Mrs. Owen VanDine, Mrs. Walter Livey, Mrs. Edmund Groom, and the Misses Mary Rudzinski, Kathleen and Mildred Walters.

Announcement has been made by the Bristol Council of Defense Housing Committee that the survey of local industries for the purpose of determining the number of employees who desire homes or apartments in this immediate vicinity has been completed.

The committee now plans to determine the number of rooms for rent in Bristol and vicinity. To get this information a number of questionnaires will be mailed to persons in this section.

Due to the expansion of National Defense industries in Bristol there will be many rooms needed to house the workers. It is urged by the committee that anyone having rooms for rent fill out the questionnaire, and return same to the committee as soon as possible. The co-operation of all receiving these questionnaires is urged.

FRIDAY, JUNE 6, 1941

AFTER THE FIRST YEAR

The Office of Production Management comes to the end of its first year with few persons satisfied with results. The most that Mr. Knudsen now claims is that "we have made a start." The most that his co-director, Mr. Hillman, claims is that "all-out participation of our nation's entire manpower in the defense effort has yet to be achieved."

In Washington, the political chorus stresses a refrain of failure to meet full expectations. There is New Deal pressure for a remaking of the present setup. There is even talk of the retirement of Mr. Knudsen, forced or otherwise. The enmity of political antagonisms against business leaders in key positions adds to the confusions. The refusal of favored contractors to spread work
among smaller manufacturers slows up production.

The lack of power where power
should be concentrated to secure action is held to be due to the administration's unwillingness in any measure to yield White House control. There is criticism on this point from both the friends of the administration and from its opponents.

The result of all this is an unhappy condition which produces much dissatisfaction and perhaps not a small amount of unfairness in the effort to place responsibility. One reads of new projects started, expansions planned, orders placed, but no maximums of production achieved. The best that is promised is the hope for better results.

But hope is not enough in the circumstances. It is not enough to lay foundations. The demand is for the goods—goods not alone for others, but goods for ourselves. We are not getting those because we have not yet solved the problem of full co-operation—the co-operation that comes from intelligent planning, the co-operation that comes from universal effort, the co-operation that comes from concentration of directed power.

And if what is revealed by the anniversary reports that now come in great volume from Washington is true, Washington is a maelstrom of purposeless churning.

HOT TRADING IN PEPPER

Not many people would ascribe to Americans a passion for spices, but it is now being disclosed that Americans do like a lot of seasoning.
One day last week on the Produce Exchange in New York pepper put on a speculative show which proved that.

Incidentally, disruption of sea commerce is cutting into the even flow of over-sea spices to this country. Channels from foreign sources of supply are becoming scarce and as the stocks on hand in the United States begin to show danger of dis-minution, some traders have become over-eager.

Excited trading in black pepper
supplies brought a turnover of 5,250 tons, or 10,500,000 pounds—equivalent roughly to one-third of the total pepper consumption in the United States for one year.

Of course in such tremendous trading the price climbed spectacularly and the Federal agency known as the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply stepped in with a suggestion that margin requirements in pepper might be increased to at least $1,000 a contract and quieted things down somewhat.

"FOR SPECIAL SERVICE" Maryse by Rutledge

SYNOPSIS

With war clouds in the offing, a special watch is set on Marie Schuyler, current Glamour Girl, who is "doing" the Mediterranean
on her yacht, Serena, surrounded by a suspicious set of "important" people. Chief of these is Felix Norheim, promoter extraordinary.
Cooperating with the gay girl's guardians, the intelligence service
unofficially assigned Tony Worth,
a young lawyer, to safeguard madcap Marie. En route to Europe, he observed the sophisticated Baroness Lascar, one of Norheim's alluring aides. In the meantime,
Marie is entertaining Norheim; Marchese Nino Lippi, her latest heart interest; Ray Sheldon, an American playboy; Eve Pryne, wandering widow; and Major Eric Thelme, stalwart retired army officer. Hioto, radio operator, has just received important messages for Norheim. Marie takes her speed-boat for a spin off Corfu and it up-sets. Marie objected to the interference of this stranger; but soon after Tony and Marie reached the quay, Marchese Nino Lippi arrived and there are introductions. Worth does not disclose just who he is.
Friction develops between Nino
and the American. When Nino left momentarily, Tony said to Marie:
"Don't tell me you're in love with that bird!"

CHAPTER ELEVEN

She stood a moment then, in the warm clear light, her hands in the pockets of the flaring pink coat, her head slightly bent. "The way you said that sounded terribly familiar,"
she murmured. "It bothers me not to place people." Her mind circled back to New York . . . to faces at parties and night clubs . . . She had met so many men, but none of them had ever hinted she wasn't perfect.
Tony didn't want her to remember. He said abruptly, "We never met—before today."

She accepted that and walked on rather thoughtfully, with him beside her. Nino came rapidly toward them. He was furious at Tony for sticking around.

This time his manner wasn't so suave. "I understood Mr. Worth wanted to get back to his hotel and change," he said snippily. "Your boat was not damaged, Marie. Shall we go now?"

"I suppose so," she agreed, without enthusiasm. She felt suddenly reluctant to face all the questions about her adventure. She put her hand out to Tony. He took it in a strong clasp as she asked:

"When may I see you again?"
This was what Tony had been waiting for. And Lippi, for all his Latin tact, played right into his hand. For Lippi, thinking only of getting Marie away from this American,
there was but one method of putting an end to the fellow's hopes.

"Miss Schuyler is leaving for Cannes tomorrow," the Marchese said, and could have bitten his tongue out as he saw Marie's expression change.

"Am I?" She turned back to Tony, her hand still in his. "Won't you dine with us tonight?" she invited, and it seemed to Tony that her eyes were urgent. "I'll send for you at eight-thirty. Right?" Her lips parted, curled.

"Right," he answered fervently.
Marie gave him one of her gay
smiles; and jumped into the launch,
without waiting to be helped.

Nino Lippi, before following,
stepped up to Tony, his blond head thrust a little forward. "I advise you not to take advantage of Miss Schuyler's impulsive invitation," he whispered.

Before he left for that dinner on the Serena, Tony Worth packed his bags, paid his bill, and told the Hotel d'Angleterre people he would probably send for his luggage in the course of the evening. He had made up his mind that once he got on the yacht he would stay there, no matter how he managed it. There were only two questions which he debated while he dressed. First:
Should he remove from his briefcase
the bulk of material Ed Keeler had handed him from the F.B.I. Chief the day he left the United States?

Tony decided to destroy the stuff.
That done, he was in such a mood
that he slipped his .32 into his hip pocket.
The wisdom of carrying a gun
had been the second question over which he had pondered. But wits, not a gun, were what he would need most in the coming days. So he finally tucked the .32 between strips in the suitcase. Then he strolled down to the quay where the launch
from the Serena waited.

Hans, the seaman who had run
the launch that afternoon, was waiting. He didn't respond to Tony's pleasant comments on the silvery starlight over Corfu or the pleasures of cruising along Grecian shores. The man was surly, and at seeming odds with the lovely night.

The Serena looked enormous as they slid under the glow of lights
gleaming from cabins and decks.
There was no visible life along her steep white sides but Tony, setting foot on the ladder, felt porthole eyes upon him during his brief climb.
And his wariness increased. The Marchese had been very much in earnest when he advised Tony not to come on board. Then the sense of being an intruder vanished.
Marie Schuyler waited for him
on the main deck, and she was unfeignedly glad to see him. "You're a great relief!" was her greeting.
"You can't imagine what I've been through since this afternoon."
"I should say you'd spent your wouldn't hear of it. You know, he's quite old—I mean he must be at least fifty—but he won't dare be rude." She looked at Worth closely.

"I shouldn't let that worry me,"
Tony said easily. He hesitated.
He had half a mind to tell her a few things. But he wasn't sure how she'd take them, and, well—he wasn't free to talk.

Her warm little hand closed over
his. "I just thought I'd tell you,"
she said. "Come on, let's join the others."

They were walking toward the stern of the big ship when Marie gave a start. A small figure in a black kimono appeared, as if from nowhere. It was the first Tony knew of a Jap on board; Worth's face was grave as he glanced at the bobbing, bowing little man.
Hioto's smile was placid, his eyes
unwinking behind horn-rimmed

"You look rather nice yourself," said Marie to Tony.

time in a beauty shop." Tony stepped back to admire. They took stock of each other.

She looked very different tonight
from the girl he had pushed around in the water. Her dark red curls were looped up and shaped around her wide forehead. She wore midnight blue, to match her eyes; her small waist was belted with dull gold. Yet she seemed child-like to Tony. In any one of a dozen New York spots he could think of, she would have fitted the decor; here
she was a child, after all, in a probable international drama of which she had no inkling.

"You look rather nice, yourself," Marie commented, liking the way
his crisp black hair was brushed back, not too slickly, and the fit of his white dinner coat. "Listen. Before you meet the others, I want to tell you something." She drew him to the rail.

"Yes?" They stood amidships.
"It's just this," she began. "Please don't mind how Felix Norheim behaves tonight. He loathes strangers. I mean, I never dreamed he was so unsoberable until this cruise." She sounded indignant.

"Norheim?" Tony repeated, as if he had never heard the name.

Marie moved along the teakwood rail, her elbow almost touching his.
"You probably wouldn't know him
unless you'd been around the Rivera a lot." She lowered her voice.
"He's a sort of huge interests financier—a tycoon—who just moves about on big business only—"

"What business?" Tony interrupted with youthful enthusiasm.
"Oh, international business deals and such." She was vague. "I don't really know. He's mysteriously magnetic and, of course, that fascinates me. I was most awfully flattered when he suggested this cruise
—I mean, he said, he needed to get away from it all. But—she frowned a little at the lights on shore—"he doesn't seem to rest much. And he was frightfully annoyed when Nino told him you were to dine on the yacht."

"I don't see, under the circumstances, what he's got to say about whom you invite on your own ship," Tony remarked, watching her closely.
"That's just it," Marie burst out.
"I told him so. I even told him if he didn't like it, he could have dinner in his rooms. I wish you could have seen the way he looked at me! He

Cheerful Workers Elect
Officers; Plan For Supper

NEWPORTVILLE, June 6—The Cheerful Workers held a meeting in the church on Wednesday evening. A committee, composed of Mrs. Julius Gehrmann, Mrs. Charles Everett, Mrs.
Myron Mattocks, Mrs. John Lowrie, was appointed to confer with the Men's Fellowship, which is renovating the church kitchen, a cement floor already having been laid.

Election of officers took place, with the following being elected: President, Mrs. Clifford Ingraham; vice-president, Mrs. Charles Everett; secretary, Mrs. Walter Bowker; treasurer, Mrs.
Frederick Wimmersberger.

Members of the ways and means entertainment, and decorating committees are to meet June 11th, at eight
p. m. in the church, to make arrangements for the covered dish supper.

School League Plans For
Chicken Dinner, Tuesday

TULLYTOWN, June 6—The Tully-town Home and School League will sponsor a chicken dinner, Tuesday evening, at the Inter-State Glass House, near Morrisville.

Members and friends of the League are invited. Reservations must be in by this evening, and any one wishing to attend is asked to contact Mrs.
Helen Nichols, Mrs. Walter Strouse or Mrs. Winfield Carman. Bus transportation has been arranged. The bus will leave at 6.30, and return at 11.
Each one is asked to take a prize
which will be used for games.

One of the most enjoyable features of the afternoon was a birthday luncheon with the table decorations representing the different months of the year. Persons whose birthdays fall in certain months were seated at the corresponding tables. Afterward the guests were entertained by Magician Raymond Scheetz, of New Hope.

The monthly and annual reports were given. The report of corresponding secretary was read by Mrs. H. L. Kister. Miss Gertrude H. Shearer, treasurer, reported a balance in the treasury of $122.59. There are 203 active members on the roll and four associate members.

The hospital treasurer, Mrs. F. Cyrus Twining, reported the total income for the hospital for the year was $36,164.78 and for the visiting nurse was $1485. The expenses were $37,664.75; and for the visiting nurse were $311,224. The balance of active account for May was $1523.80.

Mrs. James E. Groff, reporting for child welfare, said 52 well baby clinics were held with Dr. Harriet Davis in charge. One hundred and fifty-eight babies were examined and in 38 children no defects were found.

Mrs. H. Leroy Kister announced that the canvass for the hospital would open June 12th with a visiting day from 1:30 to 3:30 p. m. at the hospital. She also spoke of the beautiful lawn, the gift of George Hart and that Mrs. F. Cyrus Twining had planted flowers on the rear of the grounds, so there would be a succession of bloom through the Summer.

Alexandria, the major British port in the Eastern Mediterranean.

German reconnaissance planes returning to Alexandria yesterday found the docks wrapped in a pall of smoke. This particular raid was concentrated on harbor facilities and no attempt was made at the time to attack the British Fleet base there. "Most effective results" were accomplished, according to military headquarters.

New attacks on Alexandria, German officials said, will coincide with "whirlwind" assaults against Tobruk and Cyprus. Sooner or later, the British Navy will find itself in the center of a tornado path of German aerial fury, it was said.

Regardless of RAF and Fleet dispositions and reinforcements, military men say, the Germans are confident that they can overwhelm the enemy by sheer force of numbers and devastating fire power.

Faith Clarke's SHOPPING TIPS FOR BUDGETEERS

Sales, sales, sales, my dears! Don't miss 'em. One of the reliable Philadelphia shops is celebrating Summer Snellenburg Week by very special reductions, for a limited time, in all parts of the store. Go to town!

You've wanted a new rug, a good one, and perhaps new hall and stair carpet—the kind that lasts. For "Snellenburg Week" grand heavy seamless Wiltons are priced at $27.65 instead of $47.50. These 9x12 rugs have a thick, lustrous pile, and show a variety of exquisite Persian patterns with the furnishings of any room. Regular $3.95 Wilton carpeting for stairs and hallways is reduced for Snellenburg Week to $1.95 a yard. What an opportunity! Even the heavy gauge $2.49 inlaid linoleum is reduced to $1.64. Floor Coverings, 4th fl.

A blessing of comfort are the Snellenburg "Campus Tramp" shoes for women or for men. Now one sees them worn even on town streets. This shop has this casual type of shoe in well cut lasts and with careful detailing. A good buy at the regular price of $2.50, they are bargains indeed at the Snellenburg Week price of $1.99. Can be had in all brown or brown and white. Women's sizes 4 to 9, AA to C widths; men's sizes 6 to 11, C and D widths. There are Snellenburg Week reductions on the shop's "Dainty Deb" shoes, too, $3.45 instead of $3.95. 1st floor.

A chance for this year's wear and even next season's wardrobe lies in the specially priced tropical worsted suits for men. Suits selling regularly at $19.50 have a Snellenburg Week price of $15.75. These tropicals are porous for circulation and the kind that keep pressed. Men's suits can be bought by the handy deferred payment plan if you prefer. Ask about it. Many other Snellenburg Week bargains in this splendid Men's Clothing Dept. on the 3rd floor. Sanitized shrunk summer slacks, usually $2.25, are but $1.69. Easily laundered. Sizes 30 to 44.

The popular seersucker slack suit of the season can be had in Snellenburg's "Sun 'n' Sand Shop" at a substantial reduction. Regularly $5.98, these three piece suits are now $3.99. Precision tailored in cool gray, blue, rose, with white stripes. Inner or outer style shirts and casual-fitted jackets. Sizes 12 to 20. Same department actually has rayon sharkskin two piece suits for only $2.85. Solid colors and checks, sizes 12 to 18. See, also, their printed rayon play suits, two piece, for only $2.99! 12 to 20. 2nd fl.

Stock up on sheets during Snellenburg Week! The Bedmuslin Dept. (2nd fl.) has the kind you'll want to buy in quantity. Percale sheets of good lustrous quality but with very minor flaws can be had for $1.24 instead of the usual prices of $1.79 to $2.75. Made for long, hard wear. About all sizes, from 63x108 to 90x108. Percale pillow cases to accompany them, 42x38 1/2 or 45x38 1/2 ins., are now 39c instead of 59c. You'll be interested, too, in the "Fruit-of-Loom" mattress and box spring covers at only $1.44. Twin, three-quarter, and full sizes.

You who like to sew your own will delight in the glorious array of reduced yard goods reduced for Snellenburg Week. There's anti-crease chiffon voile at 39c instead of 59c; crown-tested rayon sharkskin and shantung for only 39c, too, and a beautiful acetate rayon knit jersey for 88c instead of $1.19. An astounding group of popular materials can be had at 39c a yard. There's a remnant table of wash cottons at 14c a yard, and popular cottons, sheers, and heavier weaves are priced at 19c a yard. Hurry! 2nd fl.

A portable radio is a summer joy. A Snellenburg Week price on a $24.95 is $14.95. An exceptional buy in appearance and in performance. Can be tuned in on AC or DC current, or can be used with only its battery power when current isn't available. The aerial is built in and there are no annoying attachments. The simulated wooden case makes the radio one you are proud to take tripping. $1 down will deliver this radio, plus a small carrying charge. You'll find it in the Radio Salon on Snellenburg's fifth floor.

Last, but certainly not least if you are to be pleasantly and profitably occupied this summer, are the Snellenburg Week reductions in the 4th fl. Art Needlework Dept. of the store. Regularly priced at 45c, seven-hundred-yard hanks of Buella Wondersheen cotton can be had for 35c, 3 hanks for $1. (Popular ivory shade.) "Snellenburg" knitting worsted can be had for 55c a hank instead of 69c. 4-ply 3 3/4 ounce hanks in all shades, plus authentic Red Cross colors. Other good "buys" in this unusually good dept. include exceptional needlepoint pieces, large and small. Also summer kapok cushions at 49c.

May your money go far in this shop of good values! Cheerio. "F.C."

SPECIAL OFFER!

decoration scheme for the business section of the borough. A report as to the plan and costs will be made at the October meeting.

A garbage contract for two years has been awarded to A. B. Cook, Hilltown, at $60 monthly. Other contracts awarded included one for 15,000 gallons of road oil to the J. B. Barrett Company, at 10.75 a gallon; and cement from the Darius Sine Estate at 57 cents a bag.

An investigation as to why WPA pavement work has been lagging revealed a shortage of men on the job. A year ago there were 120 men doing this work in the borough, and the number has now dropped to 17.

The street department has instructed to complete the work at once, under the original terms subscribed to by the property-owners, and at a loss in labor to the borough.

Jean Schultz received a trophy for the outstanding senior. Ernest Mayer presented the Morrisville Community Chorus award of $5 each to Peggy Sherrard and Burtis Anderson. The Morrisville High Alumni Association medals went to Jean Schultz for English and William Annecchini for social studies; the Neal Nolan athletic awards of $5 each to David Seltzer and Jean Schultz and Jean Reitzle, and the Dr. A. Kroesnick French award of $5 to John Hoogstrate. The last three presentations were made by Manohar R. Reiter, supervising principal.

The $10 awards of the American Legion and Auxiliary, presented by Mr. Reiter and Mrs. Edward B. Mountford, president of the auxiliary, were presented to Tacy Bleasdale and John Hoogstrate.

Diplomas were presented to the 77 graduates by William B. Anderson, president of the board of education.

and Lawrence Hirth, Mary Brown and Amelia Flick, and $5 to her husband, Bernard Rizzo. Four children, Joseph Hirth, Annie Funk, Philip Hirth and Jennie Urbach were bequeathed the residue.

Nine cousins, one of whom is May T. Macallister, 1821 Sycamore avenue, Hatboro, will share the $20,000 estate of Annie T. Carver, Wrightstown, whose letters of administration were granted to Anna Martha Thompson, Germantown.

In the estate of John T. Donahue, Bristol township, letters of administration were granted to a sister, Hannah C. McAtee, Philadelphia, amounting to a personal estate of $5,000 and real estate at Second and Miller avenues, Croydon. A sister, three nieces and two nephews are the heirs.

A step-son, William H. Thompson, 213 Wood street, Bristol, was granted the letters of administration in the estate of Jeannette Thompson, Bristol, amounting to a personal estate of $50 and real estate in Tullytown, and one-half interest in a property at 229 Wood street, Bristol.

A Farling widow, Martha Philb, was bequeathed the $1218 personal and $5500 real estate holdings of her husband, Matthew Philb, of Buckingham township, with reservations. At the

ON the contrary, it is regarded as practically settled that, after naming Senator Byrnes to succeed Justice McInnes, he will designate Attorney General Robert H. Jackson as Chief Justice to succeed Mr. Hughes. This has been the belief of the insiders for a long time. Probably it will be justified, though there are some reasons for thinking Mr. Roosevelt may disappoint the prophets within his Administration. One is that there is certainly no obligation, political or otherwise, on his part to appoint Mr. Jackson. An attractive young man personally, the Attorney Generalship is as high an office as Mr. Jackson's age and record would seem to entitle him, and there exists no reason for his promotion.

A SECOND is that Mr. Jackson's reputation in public life has been made more as a crusading New Deal politician than as a lawyer. It may be that, with control of the court already in his hands, the President will hesitate to elevate to so majestic a position so violent a partisan. But there is still another and weightier reason. The designation of either Mr. Jackson or Mr. Douglas as Chief Justice would be deliberately to pass over Justice Felix Frankfurter, the recognized leader of the New Deal bloc on the court and certainly better qualified, both intellectually and in knowledge of the law, than Mr. Jackson.

THERE has been criticism of Mr. Frankfurter's alleged activity as a Presidential adviser on matters not connected with his position as a justice, but there has been no question of the profundity of his legal learning—nor of his high character. In addition, he is close to the President personally, a strong supporter of his New Deal policies and the chief influence on the court in upholding New Deal legislation. Considering these things, Mr. Frankfurter would seem the logical Roosevelt choice for Chief Justice. If he should pass over him, designating a younger and inferior man, but one reason could be assigned—to wit, fear of stimulating anti-Semitic feeling in the country.

THIS seems a peculiarly unworthy thing for a President to consider. It is particularly unworthy when the Nazi persecution of the Jews is contrasted with our boast of freedom from racial and religious prejudice. Yet the fact is that in the past Mr. Roosevelt has been deterred from action by that fear. The case of Mr. Jerome Frank is the best example. Mr. Frank had been promised a Federal judgeship, but the vacancy came so quickly upon the appointment of Mr. Frankfurter to the Supreme Court that the Frank appointment was postponed on the ground that the President thought it unwise to name two Jews to the Federal bench at that time. Accordingly, Mr. Frank's judgeship was delayed for nearly three years.

MR. ROOSEVELT, of course, has no personal anti-Semitic prejudice, as he has often proven. Nevertheless, he recognizes the existence of such a thing in the country and has feared to excite it. It is a bad thing for the President publicly to recognize this prejudice and to be frightened by it. A far more healthful thing would be for him to refuse such recognition and fearlessly ignore it. That is the only way this ignoble and degrading sentiment can be broken up and dissipated. It is enhanced and increased when men in higher places are obviously afraid of it and supinely yield to it. The retirement of Mr. Hughes gives the President an opportunity to set an inspiring example. If he must name a New Dealer, Justice Frankfurter is clearly the best-qualified man. It will be a terrible thing to pass him by because he is a Jew. If there is any other reason, no one has suggested it.

BRISTOL NINE FACES PHILA. LEAGUE TEAM AT KENSINGTON

Meet Leaders of Philadelphia
Loop Tonight, and Jersey
Team Saturday

TEST FOR LOCAL STAFF

Dick and Herb Piuma Face
Busy Week-End On
The Mound

By Jack Gill

The Bristol A. A. nine seeks its second victory of the season this evening when it stacks up against the Kensington club at D and Tioga avenues. The Philly combine, currently setting the pace in the Philadelphia League, will test the minions of Johnny Mulholland to the limit.

The A's will start their best bet on the mound in Stan Dick. It was Dick who started the homesters off so auspiciously with a whitewash trick at Atlantic City three weeks ago. The opposition may throw Fred Dauterick against the Bristolians.

This game is a twilight fust and is carded to start at 6 o'clock. So far it is the closest the A's have come to playing around home. Several local fans may be in the stands to witness the play.

Tomorrow the Bristol club tackles Pleasantville, N. J. Herby Piuma, who had trouble with Fisher's in his last start for the homesters, will probably get the call. The game originally carded with Mayfair, another Philly League combine, may not be played on Sunday. The rains that fell Wednesday and Thursday forced the curtailment of several loop entanglements and as a result Mayfair may have to compete in a league game on that date. However, if the game does go through, Lefty Sweeney will do the pitching.

DIAMOND TEAM TO PLAY VOLTZ-TEXACO

With an opportunity to climb on top of the heap in the Bristol Suburban League race, the Diamond team will meet the Voltz-Texaco boys this evening on Landreth's field.

This game was scheduled for Wednesday evening but was called off because of rain.

Diamond, St. Ann's and Eldred are deadlocked for first place and a triumph for the Diamantians will put them on top. The Diamond boys have won four straight contests while the Voltz team is in the midst of a losing streak.

It is most likely that "Lefty" Keogan will do the hurling for the Diamond boys with Hal Shackleton or Jimmy Cooper tossing them up for the gas oleers who will be strengthened by the addition of several high school boys.

Game is scheduled to begin at 6:30 o'clock.

BOXING SHOW SEATS ARE TO GO ON SALE

Reserve seats for the amateur boxing show to be conducted Monday night in the St. Ann's A. A. arena will go on sale over the week-end. The bouts will be under the sanction of the Middle Atlantic district of the A. A. U.

Match-maker Johnny Raccagno has his card almost completed and will use several local boys matched against opponents from Philadelphia. These local boys are now in training in the St. Ann's gym and appear to be in excellent condition.

General admission tickets will go on sale at seven o'clock on the night of the fights, there being 1300 of these seats available. The St. Ann's arena was re-modelled last season to hold a seating capacity of 1600.

Reservations can be made by phoning the St. Ann's club-house, 9934, or contacting Matchmaker Raccagno.

LEGION TEAM ABOUT READY TO START SEASON

The Legion's Junior Baseball Team will hold its final practice tomorrow afternoon on Leedom's Field at 1:30 o'clock.

All boys who have been given certificates must have them there for Robert J. Hens, athletic officer to collect.

The team will be picked after practice by the coach, Henry Morgan.

The team will open its season on Saturday, June 14th, at Doylestown. On Wednesday, June 18, Perkaskie will play Bristol at St. Ann's Field for Bristol's opening game.

Couch Morgan is very much pleased with the fine material that has been turning out for the team.

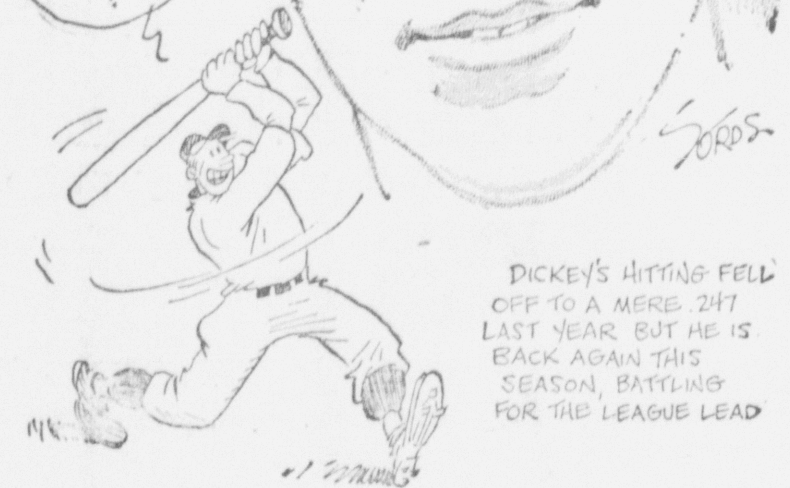

He is having a problem to pick fifteen boys from the 33 who registered or tryouts. With both Bensalem High and Bristol high star battery mates (Eddie De-Voe and Fleming, of Bensalem, Hopkins and Capriotti, Bristol, and Barnes and Rotundo from last

Rose, LeBegue and Trevoux

The fourth car from last Friday's Indianapolis 500-mile race signed for the June 15th classic at Langhorne Speedway was announced today by Lucky Teter, owner of the world's fastest mile oval.

Tommy Hinershitiz, of Reading, Pa., will drive the powerful four-cylinder Marks-Miller Special which he piloted to tenth place in the Memorial Day classic.

Filing of Hinershitiz's entry on the Marks car lines the "Flying Dutchman" against Mauri Rose, winner of the classic; and Rene LeBegue and Jean Trevoux, the famed European champions from Vichy, France. Rose will pilot the powerful Lou Moore car and the Frenchmen will wheel the French-built Talbot Specials they "sneaked" out of war-riddled Europe to arrive at Indianapolis only ten days before the world's major speed classic.

The greatest field of drivers ever to race here will bid for the season's richest purse in a 100-mile Langhorne championship classic. At least 50 of the most expensive speed creations riding the big league circuit will bid for starting positions in qualifying trials at 12 o'clock noon.

Hinershitiz, veteran of many Langhorne campaigns, went to Indianapolis speaker.

this year admittedly with his "fingers crossed." He knew he had the stuff to cope with the grueling pace of Indianapolis, for he had driven there in other years. But Tommy hadn't been able to gain a driving assignment on any of the "hot" cars. For days he canvassed the Indianapolis speedway garages, but failed to "sell" himself to any of the car owners. The evening before the opening of qualifying time trials, when the drivers race their fastest laps to gain a starting position, Hinershitiz hadn't yet landed a car. As the speedway gates were being locked, to be opened the next morning for qualifications, Hinershitiz came upon Joe Marks, the Gary, Indiana, merchant, who brought a car to Langhorne several years ago for the then-champion Kelly Petillo to drive.

"Didn't I see you drive at Langhorne," Marks asked Hinershitiz.

"Oke, then," Marks replied to Tommy's affirmative that he had met up with Marks at the world's fastest mile oval, "you've got yourself a mount for Indianapolis this year. Come out tomorrow morning early for practice laps and if my Miller handles for you, it's yours for the race."

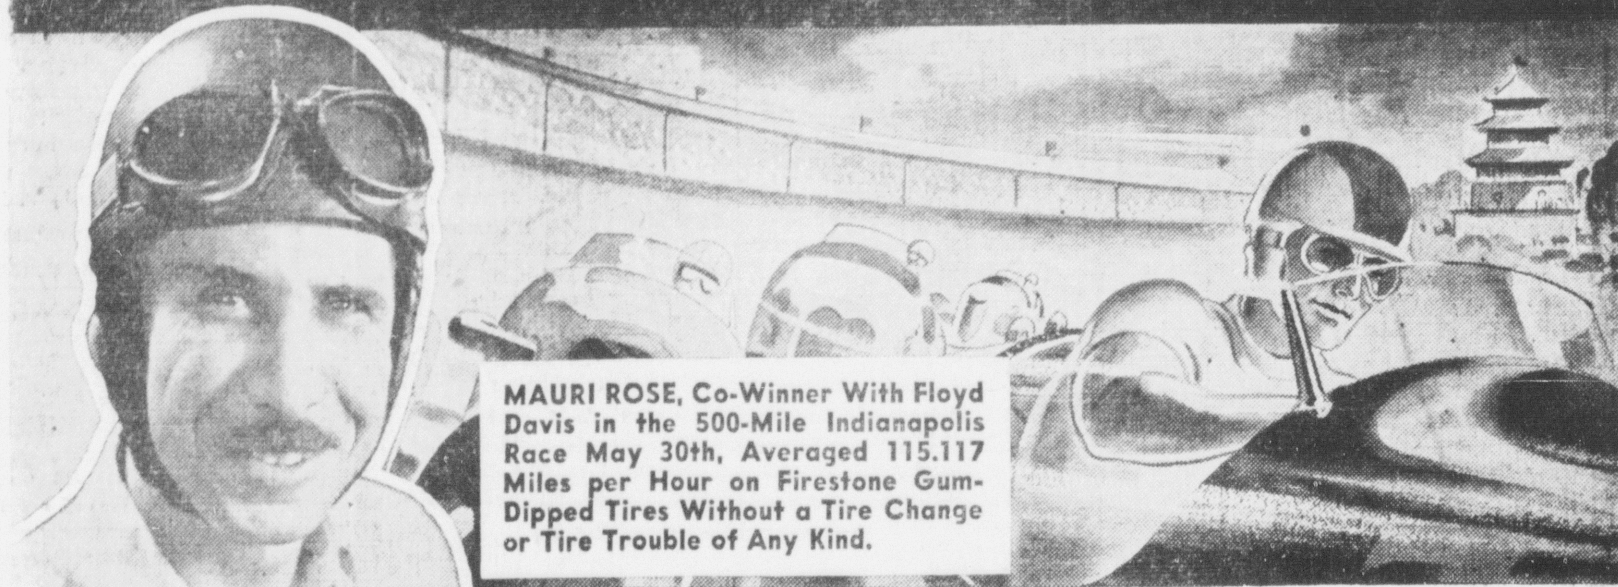

Enthusied over Tommy's showing last Friday, Marks immediately entered the car at Langhorne for the toughest competition to be seen anywhere—Hinershitiz matching his wits against the veteran Mauri Rose and the two European champions, LeBegue and Trevoux.

"There's a lad who's going to win an Indianapolis race in the next year or two," is Marks' endorsement of the hard-riding Pennsylvanian, as he readies the powerful Miller for the Langhorne classic.

FIRESTONE TIRES WIN AGAIN IN 500-MILE INDIANAPOLIS RACE

MAURI ROSE, Co-Winner With Floyd Davis in the 500-Mile Indianapolis Race May 30th, Averaged 115.117 Miles per Hour on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires Without a Tire Change or Tire Trouble of Any Kind.

FLASHING down the straightaways at speeds as high as 160 miles an hour, Mauri Rose streaked to victory in the 1941 Indianapolis Sweepstakes without a tire change. 500 miles of grinding, pounding, torturing speed — and not one tire failed! Here's proof of safety—proof of blowout protection—proof of endurance — proof of tire superiority backed not merely by claims, but by PERFORMANCE! For 22 consecutive years all the winning drivers in this great classic of speed and endurance have driven to victory on Firestone Tires. Why? Because race drivers know that their very lives depend upon the safety of their tires. They have made it their business to know how tires are built. And they know from experience that the patented and exclusive construction features found only in Firestone Tires provide the extra strength and durability necessary to safety and victory!

Protect your life and the lives of your family with the only tires made that are Safety-Proved on the Speedway for your protection on the Highway. The same super-safety and amazing dependability that are built into Firestone Tires for the speedway are also built into the new Safti-Sured Firestone DeLuxe Champion Tires for the highway. Both are Safti-Sured against blowouts by the patented Safety-Lock Gum-Dipped cord body. Both are Safti-Sured for longer wear by the exclusive new Vitamic rubber compound.

Profit by the experience of famous race drivers. Why else would they insist upon Firestone Tires year after year if they had not found by experience that they are the safest tires built? You can have this same protection by equipping your car today with a set of these new Firestone DeLuxe Champion Tires — the world's first and only tires that are Safti-Sured.
